

Royal Pair Starts Public Appearances

Quebec, Oct. 9 (AP)—Church bells rang in welcome today to the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh when they arrived here on their Canadian tour.

The royal 21-gun salute was fired from the historic heights of Quebec precisely 4:45 a. m. eastern standard time to mark the arrival of the royal couple. The salute actually signalled the official beginning of the month-long coast-to-coast tour and visit in Washington, D. C. Throughout the day Elizabeth and her handsome husband were to greet the thousands of people who were expected to see the royal couple for a full 13 hours, until they leave by train for Ottawa at 10:30 p. m.

Beside the St. Lawrence river, under bleak, gray skies, a relatively handful of Quebec's people gathered to watch a scene of military pomp and royal splendor.

Scarlet-jacketed Royal Canadian Mounted Police and militia stood in attention as the princess train, pulled through the quiet country, glided toward a huge waterfront shed, where Quebec's lieutenant-governor, Charles Fauriol, provincial premier Maurice Duplessis, Mayor Lucien Borne and others waited to greet her.

A motorcade of sleek automobiles pulled up to take the party into the centuries-old city, capital of French Canada. A round of cheers from the spectators went up as the royal couple drove by in an open car. The duke waved to the crowd.

The princess and the duke had a rigorous program ahead:

1. A visit to the Quebec parliament to sign the golden book and meet parliament members and the speaker.

2. A tour of the city, with stops at Laval university and city hall.

3. Inspection of the old British fortress and the regiment de La Chaudiere on the historic plains of Abraham. The princess is colonel-in-chief of the regiment.

4. A luncheon given by the lieutenant-governor.

5. Inspection of Canada's 27th

Youths Escape From Industrial School

Pine Bluff, Oct. 9 (AP)—A stolen automobile may have been the means used to escape from the Arkansas boys industrial school here.

An automobile was stolen from a car shop here shortly after the escape Sunday night.

Police said school authorities at first thought seven boys escaped from the school but they discovered later that an eighth youth, Thelma Baker, 16, of Arkadelphia, Ark., also was missing.

Police Chief Mel Chisholm identified the other missing inmates as Philip Terry, 16, of Hot Springs; James Lee Ward, 16, of Morrilton; brigade, soon to leave for Europe. A demonstration by 20,000 school children at the municipal stadium, a state banquet and an appearance at a concert by the Quebec symphony orchestra.

It was a sample of what the royal couple will face almost every day for the next month.

Elizabeth and Philip spent last night's first on Canadian soil aboard the special train bringing them from Montreal to Quebec.

They arrived just before noon yesterday at Montreal's Dorval airport after a 3,400-mile flight from England.

After their welcome at Montreal by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Vincent Alexander, the governor-general, the royal party boarded the 10-car luxury train for an afternoon and evening of rest and relaxation.

Aboard the train they were offered a Canadian Thanksgiving dinner of roast turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie.

Canada's Thanksgiving comes a bit ahead of the American observance. The Canadians celebrate Oct. 9, anniversary of the day Canada came under British rule.

The visitors from Austere England had their choice of chicken, ham, filet mignon, duck, oysters, trout, haddock and lobster for main courses, and English plum pudding, hot rhubarb pie, fruit sundae and cheese for desserts.

A communique from the train last night said nothing about the royal choice for dinner but noted the lunch was "simple."

Leaving Montreal, Elizabeth and Philip waved to the crowds gathered at midway stations along the route. After they visited each car of the train, including the baggage car, and talked to each member of the train crew.

The communique said the couple was "fascinated by the massive trains and locomotives," which are larger than Britain's.

The train stopped for water and running orders at St. Hyacinthe 40 miles from Montreal. The princess and her husband took a short walk along the station platform and waved to people there.

The royal couple, it was learned, have a wide variety of reading matter on the train. In addition to Canadian magazines and newspapers, the library includes such books as "The River," "The Great Portage," "The Frigate," "The River and The Empty Sea."

Believes Dixie Downs to Be Racing Soon

Little Rock, Oct. 9 (AP)—The State Rep. Glenn Walther of Pulaski county predicted today that horses will be racing at the proposed Dixie Downs track near West Memphis by next May.

That was his reaction to the state supreme court's denial of a rehearing yesterday on Walther's request for an order to force the state racing commission to grant a franchise for the track.

Walther said his next step will be to ask the racing commission for a rehearing. In event the commission again turns down the request, Walther said the case would be taken into Circuit Court, circuit court and, if necessary, back to the state supreme court.

"But I am extremely hopeful that the commission now will grant the franchise," Walther said. "I hope to see the first horses running at the track in May, 1952."

There has been a long and involved controversy over the franchise application.

Gov. Sid McMath consistently has opposed a second race track in Arkansas, contending that the one at Hot Springs was enough.

The racing commission turned down the request for a franchise about six months ago. Walther, who is the legal counsel for the incorporators, then appealed the case to Pulaski circuit court. The lower court supported the racing commission, and Walther took the case to the supreme court.

Last July, the high court declined Walther's motion for a writ of certiorari which would have permitted a review of the case. The justices told Walther he had not yet exhausted all avenues of appeal to the commission and in the lower courts.

Walther then filed a motion for rehearing on the request for the writ and this was turned down by the high court yesterday.

Now, the Pulaski county legislature is starting back at the bottom rung of the legal ladder.

Throughout his attempts to get the racing commission did not take into consideration the two prerequisites that must be met. One is that the backers show their financial ability to build and operate the track the other is that they show their moral responsibility to handle pari-mutuel betting.

Walther told the commission that these are the only two factors to be considered, and that the backers meet both of them.

Mother Fined for Fighting Teacher

Cleveland, Oct. 9 (AP)—A 37-year-old mother was fined $25 yesterday for assaulting a school principal with the same paddle he once used on her son.

Mrs. Bernice Sney had been convicted of assault and battery by a jury. She blackened the eyes of Principal James Fenwick during an argument in his office over his punishment of her son, Dan, 15.

In a lecture accompanying the fine, Municipal Judge Mary B. Grossman told the woman to "join the Parent-Teachers' association and get a better understanding of the teacher-parent problem."

The judge also ordered the Cleveland school board informed that Fenwick's three-foot, inch-thick paddle should not be used on children.

"It was just as bad for this paddle to be used on children as it was to be used on the principal," Judge Grossman said.

Told to Keep Law Practice, Says Finnegan

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—James P. Finnegan, former U.S. tax collector in St. Louis, testified today that when he took the job in 1944 he was assured it would be all right to continue his law practice on the side.

He said the assurance came from the late Robert Hannegan, then internal revenue commissioner, later Democratic national chairman, and postmaster general.

Finnegan testified before a house ways and means subcommittee which is looking into his sideline activities as part of a general inquiry into administration of the nation's tax collection business.

He was assigned as St. Louis collector last April and his handling of the office is now under investigation by a St. Louis grand jury.

Federal intelligence agents testified that Finnegan or his family received $6,193 from a St. Louis insurance firm specializing in selling insurance to firms and individuals in trouble with the collectors' office. Finnegan said the money was legal fees.

Under questioning from the subcommittee's counsel, Adrian W. DeWind, Finnegan said he "loved" "three or four hours" a day to the collectors' office, sometimes more.

"And sometimes less," asked DeWind.

Smith said he went to lunch with Hugh Finnegan and Daniel Friedman, a New York insurance man, representing the estate research bureau.

Friedman is mentioned in an indictment which has been returned against Boston Collector Denis W. Delaney. The indictment alleges that Friedman paid Delaney $2,500 with intent to influence treatment of tax delinquencies against Maxwell Shapiro, a Boston woolen manufacturer.

Hugh Finnegan has testified that he and Friedman sold an insurance program to Shipiro after Delaney vouched for them.

Smith said that at the luncheon Friedman "did all the talking," but Wind. "And sometimes less," Finnegan conceded.

While there was considerable prestige in an appointment to be collector, Finnegan said he wasn't too much interested in the $7,500 a-year salary. He was making a lot more than that practicing law, he added.

As to the duties of his post, Finnegan said he was not a tax expert and regarded his duty as chiefly "meeting any folks who came into my office."

He said he took it because "Mr. Hannegan said this is a job you can assist me in our program."

Getting jobs for other people was a big part of that work, Finnegan said.

Before calling Finnegan to the witness chair, the subcommittee questioned Francis R. Smith, Philadelphia tax collector, briefly.

Smith testified that Finnegan telephoned him in 1948 to say his brother, Hugh Finnegan, was in Philadelphia.

Urged to Do Part for Peace

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP)—Congressman Brooks Hays of Little Rock reported today in his weekly letter that "one of the best letters I have received from Arkansas (last) week contains the appeal 'please do all you can for peace.'"

Hays commented that congress had "done so much for armaments in this session—and this is essential to our safety—that we have not been able to act vigorously enough in behalf of peace."

But the desire for peace, he added, "is uppermost in our minds."

Smith testified that Finnegan telephoned him in 1948 to say his brother, Hugh Finnegan, was in Philadelphia.

DOROTHY DIX
Unstable Girl

Dear Miss Dix: What can I do to win my girl friend back? I went with her for a year and a half, then a friend of mine told her stories about me that weren't true. She broke off with me, and began to go with him. Last week I met her and we talked for quite a while. She told me why she had stopped going with me, and I convinced her of the falsity of the tales. She says she loves me, not the other boy, but since she is still going with him, she doesn't want to hurt him. He is now overseas, and she promised to wait for him. She is very mixed up, and am I. What can we do?

Answer: Apparently the more in love one is, the more glib one becomes. Love sharpens the blade of suspicion, leaving the lover open to any suggestions of infidelity on the part of the beloved. Of course, the purveyor of disrupting tales is always a "very good and trustworthy" friend, with no desire but to see justice done. The fact that he or she is always very handy to offer consolation to the broken heart could be more coincidental.

Does She Love You?
Since your girl friend, Roy, had so little faith in you that she didn't even give you a chance to explain your side of the story until a year and a half later, perhaps she was not as much in love as you were led to believe. She wasted no time picking your successor, and her present hesitancy in making up her mind between two suitors exhibits a lack of stability that you will do well to consider. Even though you may think you love her a lot now, you don't want to stay on a merry-go-round forever. Instead of trying to win her back, why not concentrate on a new girl with more character?

To Probe Death of Soldier

Forrest City, Oct. 9 (AP)—The St. Francis county grand jury has been asked to investigate circumstances surrounding the death of an army sergeant who was found unconscious in a ditch near here over the weekend.

A coroner's jury yesterday was unable to determine whether Sgt. 1st Class Aubrey P. Reeves had met foul play or whether his death was accidental.

Coroner Charles Hubbard said he would seek a full investigation by the St. Francis county grand jury. Sergeant Reeves, who resided near the Monroe-Phillips county line, died at a Helena, Ark., hospital Saturday. The Phillips county coroner said Reeves suffered a "damaged brain" and had been hit or kicked in the face.

Appearing before the coroner's jury here yesterday were Reeves' widow, Mrs. Joan Reeves, another woman and R. T. Reeves, brother, Sgt. Mack Reeves, and an unidentified woman.

The woman previously said they accompanied the brothers to Forrest City Friday night. En route home Aubrey, who with his brother had been drinking, accused them of making fun of a facial scar.

The car stopped and the woman left, returning later and not finding the brothers drove the car to their home about 25 miles from the scene. They returned Saturday morning and found both brothers unconscious in a ditch.

Sergeant Mack Reeves testified yesterday that he didn't remember anything after leaving Forrest City. Sgt. Aubrey Reeves was a patient of the Army and Navy Hospital at Hot Springs.

The brothers were home on leave.

To Set Aside Tim Holt's Divorce Suit

Little Rock, Oct. 9 (AP)—A divorce suit which western motion picture actor Tim Holt had filed here was dropped today.

Chancellor Frank H. Dodge dismissed Holt's suit against Alice Harrison Holt of near San Diego, Calif., on motion of Holt's attorney, State Senator Max Howell of Little Rock.

Howell said a misunderstanding by Holt over Arkansas' residency requirements led to filing of the suit. He said he had drawn up a petition for an uncontested divorce for Charles John Holt Jr. (Holt's real name) before having met his client personally. He said the matter had been referred to him by another lawyer, whom he didn't identify. He said when he met Holt he recognized him as the actor. Then he asked that action on the suit be postponed until he could investigate. The dismissal motion followed.

Howell said Holt thought that because he had business interests in Arkansas, he was eligible to file for divorce here.

"I do not think that Tim intended to fool anybody," said Howell, "he just didn't know the law."

Arkansas law requires a person to be a resident of the state at least 90 days before filing for divorce. Holt was a guest star at the Arkansas Livestock show last week. At Kink, Okla., Holt said he had misunderstood Arkansas' divorce laws. He said he thought ownership of property in the state—he bought a 1,170-acre ranch from State Sen. Clyde Byrd last week—was sufficient evidence to prove intention of residency in the state. He said he thought that was all that was needed.

DOG KILLS MASTER
Marselle, Oct. 8 (AP)—Abel Chalmat, 30-year-old farmer, was shot to death yesterday by his dog. Out hunting Chalmat placed his gun against a tree and bent down to peer through bushes. His dog knocked the gun down. It went off.

Royal Couple Arrives in Canada

Montreal, Oct. 8 (AP) — Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the duke of Edinburgh, came to Canada in a trans-Atlantic plane today for their first visit to the North American continent. Their great Canadian plane was sighted over Dorval airport here at 11:35 a. m. EST.

As the huge American-built aircraft carrier "Compass" cruised over the view over head, thousands of Canadians massed at Dorval airport cheering lustily. A guard of honor snatched at attention, ready to welcome the royal couple on the first stop of their tour, which will include a visit to Washington at the end of October.

The princess and her husband barely missed a dash, chill reception. Threatening clouds lifted and the sun broke through only a short time before the plane came into view. Throughout the night and into the morning a cold rain had fallen, drenching the lawns and parking with which the airport was festooned for the occasion.

The ace pilot of the British Overseas Airways corporation, O. P. Jones, had been flying at 24,000 feet, reporting the weather above the low-hanging clouds. His orders were to circle Montreal and put down at noon, sharp.

At the airport authorities had made arrangements to handle a crowd of 100,000. The spectators gathered slowly, possibly discouraged by the weather, when the sun broke through, the size of the crowd increased swiftly, making outside reporters were briefed on procedure from the strip where the big royal plane was to end the first leg of its historic trip.

The plane touched down at Gimond Field, at 1:50 a. m. (EST) for refueling. There the princess and the duke were welcomed by a message from Sir Leonard Quaterbridge, lieutenant governor of Newfoundland, who said:

"On behalf of the government and people of Newfoundland, with humble duty I welcome your royal highnesses on your first stop on Canadian soil. We are very happy and proud that it should be in visit to this senior dominion and Britain's oldest colony and in Newfoundland province. We wish you a pleasant journey to your destination."

Judge Stearn Dies at Camden

Camden, Oct. 8 (AP) — Municipal Judge Leonard M. Stearn died following a heart attack on his birthday at his home here Saturday night. He was 60.

He had been judge of the Camden municipal court for several years and had planned to retire after his term expired this year.

Survivors include a son, Leonard M. (Buddy) Stearn of Birmingham, Ala.

Funeral services were to be held here today.

Down Deep

Fish are found at all depths of the sea, even on the ocean floor, although the number of marine animals and plants diminishes as the water gets deeper. Species that live at the greatest depths in the ocean are classed as abyssal fish.

Newfoundland looks forward to your royal highnesses visit here in November.

The princess replied: "I think you must sincerely for your message. My husband and I are indeed looking forward to meet you and the people of Newfoundland when we return here at the end of our tour."

The plane, ahead of schedule, continued on to Montreal.

Factories near the airport bandaged flats for the royal arrival, and the two railway stations of Dorval were freshly painted. Those taking part in the first ceremonies were through a dress rehearsal. Hundreds of newspaper and radio reporters were briefed on procedure from the strip where the big royal plane was to end the first leg of its historic trip.

The plane touched down at Gimond Field, at 1:50 a. m. (EST) for refueling. There the princess and the duke were welcomed by a message from Sir Leonard Quaterbridge, lieutenant governor of Newfoundland, who said:

"On behalf of the government and people of Newfoundland, with humble duty I welcome your royal highnesses on your first stop on Canadian soil. We are very happy and proud that it should be in visit to this senior dominion and Britain's oldest colony and in Newfoundland province. We wish you a pleasant journey to your destination."

The huge blue and silver royal airliner took off last night from London airport for the month-long visit to this senior dominion and the United States. It veered south of its scheduled course to avoid rough weather.

ing. In the end there will be another battle and you will lose your life. I am seeing this now. This is a great battle. A great victory for the Sioux. But you are lying among the enemy dead. A chief dressed in black riding a black horse is bearing you away. It is I. I am alive. I am carrying you away. No one spoke then, the Indians stirring uneasily in the silence following Crazy Horse's vision. . . .

Neither Star nor Slatemeyer were any the worse for their "walks in the evening." Star recovering as we lashed the still unconscious form of her abductor to a pack pony.

Riding back to Crazy Horse I took him of my plans for a part in the victory ceremony. He listened seriously, calling up Yellow Bird and Many Kills that they might hear also.

"Coten Mani will honor the victory dance," he told them. "He has requested a trial-by-knife for the white dog."

THE Sioux trial-by-knife is a legal simplicity. When two litigants have reached the impasse where one or both of them is unwilling to settle for less than the life of the other, they are stripped naked, handed knives and told to fight as loud as they can talk.

A circle of 15 long poles of diameter was drawn on bare ground. Around this, boundary lines were built, these providing light for audience and principals alike. Between the boundary lines and around the perimeter of the circle squatted the more efficient of the tribes' lancers, each armed with a short, razor-headed buffalo javelin. If either fighter got beyond the circle for any reason, tricked, forced or frightened there, the nearest Indian was delighted to force him back into the contest.

There are just two ways these duels can end. First: one of the fighters kills the other. Second: by virtue of mutual conviction that both have had enough, neither fighter will kill the other. In this case the waiting lancers move in and satisfy them both.

The Sioux have no word for "die."

As to the survivor, no matter what his status prior to the contest, he is entitled to the full rights of the tribe. In Slatemeyer's case this meant one thing: if he killed me he went free. And he would go with honor, riding his horse, wearing his weapons, being escorted in full honor to the boundaries of the tribal lands.

About midnight Yellow Bird came to me and said, "It is time. I am to be kola (second) for you."

"What has happened to the Moon?" I asked, not wanting to appear concerned about my own case.

"He is with his ancestors."

"Did he die like a man?"

The tall Sioux spat viciously as though to rid his mouth of a bite of rotten meat. "He died like a mouse," he said.

"TOGETHER we strode toward the distant clamor by the fires. Still trying to fit the piece of the calm and collected. I questioned, "And Star? Where is she?"

"You will see her."

"He would not talk further and then as we reached the dark outskirts of the crowd, stopped short. Here he announced stiffly, "There is the knife of Mangus Colorado. Wear it."

I took the long thin blade, feeling its beautiful heft and balance at once. I had never felt such a knife. It seemed alive in the hand.

"I have it. It is yours." Turning, he was gone in the dark.

Alone I kept forward, the cold rising fog on the ground, creeping through my legs, settling in my belly.

A deep "Hun-hun-het" ran around the picked circle of savages. Every eye swung in my direction as those nearest me parted to let me through. I walked looking neither right nor left, head high, warrior fashion; as nearly as I could.

Quick Nod Sought on Money Bills

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP) — Leaders of a senate drive for early adjustment today by asking speedy approval of three bills involving the speeding of more than $65,000,000.

Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona outlined this ambitious program for his colleagues:

1. A compromise $56,937,000,000 defense money bill supplying operating funds for the army, navy, air force and marines.

2. A compromise foreign-aid measure authorizing a $7,432,000,000 program of economic and military assistance abroad.

3. A new $1,751,000,000 catch-all money bill carrying funds for more than a score of government agencies, including those handling economic controls and civil defense.

Originally there had been talk that congress could wind up the session this weekend, but McFarland is now hoping for adjournment Oct. 20. Even that date appeared optimistic.

All three of the pending senate bills are on McFarland's "must" list. Senate approval, which seemed certain, would send two of them to the President's desk.

The house, generally further along with its work, turned today to a bill already passed by the senate to cut down on the maximum size and weight of parcel post packages.

The only point in the foreign aid bill which the senate has not already approved is the deletion by the house of a provision giving the new administrator of foreign aid a place on the board of directors of the export-import bank board.

Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of the senate banking committee objected to this provision when the bill went through the senate. He forecast senate acceptance of the house version.

Funds for actual operation of the foreign aid program must be provided in a separate money bill, still being drafted by a house appropriations subcommittee.

The huge defense spending bill, first of this season and biggest in history, contains more than 20 million dollars for the air force, slightly less than that for the army.

Student Convicted of Murder

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Oct. 8 (AP) — University of Alabama student convicted of second degree murder was held in the county jail today while his attorneys framed an appeal.

Lawyers for James L. Colvin, 24, Lincoln, Ala. have 30 days in which to file a motion for a new trial with the Alabama circuit court on appeal.

Colvin was convicted after a six-day trial in the fatal shooting of his roommate, Jerome Veazey, 27, Greenville, Miss., last April.

The jury fixed his sentence at 15 years in prison when it reported Saturday night. Court officials said Colvin could not be granted bail because the sentence was for longer than 10 years.

The handsome junior, known as a good student, claimed that he fired when Veazey advanced on him with a knife, ignoring a warning to halt.

The shooting followed a brief quarrel between the roommates over noise from a party Veazey gave the preceding night in their apartment.

There have been rumors — and accusations — that boxers not under contract to the I. B. C. have trouble getting fights.

Lake Superior is about 350 miles long.

A special fund of $1,000,000,000 is earmarked for expansion of air power, two thirds of it for the air force and one third for the navy and marine air arms.

The third bill — the $1,751,000,000 supplemental measure — represents an increase of nearly $165,000,000 to amounts voted by the house.

The senate appropriations committee added more than $60,000,000 to operating funds for such activities as price-wage-control. It also added by more than $30,000,000 funds for the civil defense administration, recommending $97,435,000. President Truman had asked for $335,000,000.

Grand Jury Probes Sporting Club

New York, Oct. 9 (AP) — The International Boxing Club, promoter of virtually every championship fight in the country since the demise of the 20th Century Sporting Club, was under the scrutiny of a federal grand jury today.

Jim Norris, I. B. C. president, who was threatened with a congressional investigation only two months ago, said he was not worried.

The nationwide investigation was directed by U. S. Attorney General Howard McGrath after the department of justice had made a study of the situation following numerous complaints.
